Mizzou All-Century Team

Of Missouri's 20 basketball All-Americans, several were selected retroactively by the Helms Foundation. George Williams, Herb Bunker, Arthur Browning, Marshall Craig and John Lobsiger were selected in 1943. Fred Williams and Craig Ruby were tabbed in 1957.

Oil paintings of each by noted sports artist Ted Watts, commissioned by the St. Louis Tiger Club, hang in the lobby entrance to the basketball offices at Mizzou Arena.

In 1988, Missouri began its All-America tree project. Envisioned by former Director of Athletics Jack Lengyel, and implemented by his successor, Dick Tamburo, Mizzou has planted trees in honor of each football and basketball All-American or Hall of Fame member. They're located around Faurot Field, the Mizzou Athletic Training Center and Hearnes Center.

Since Mizzou began its Intercollegiate Athletics Hall of Fame in 1990, 12 of Missouri's basketball All-Americans have been inducted.
